

Women's grand finals 1980

It was Ocean Beach and Woy Woy who took the field for the women's grand final. A large crowd witnessed a very hard, fast and even game. Both sides got their chance, but it was nil-all at fulltime. They were still locked together after two lots of extra time, so the teams were named joint premiers.

WYOMING SOCCER HAS RETURNED TO THE PINNACLE

1980

Wyoming first grade returned to the pinnacle of Central Coast soccer with a mighty 2-1 win against Wyong in the grand final at Morry Breen Oval last Sunday.

This is the fifth first grade premiership in six years to go to Wyoming. Which is some feat for a team that is referred to by many as the "pen-pushers". The only premiership they failed to win was in 1977 when they were defeated 2-1 by Wyong in the grand final.

Wyoming's Bruce Phillips aggravated the hamstring injury that has hampered him throughout the second round of the premiership. This forced Wyong's coach, John O'Brien, to re-arrange his side with Bill McIntyre moving out on to the left wing. Wyoming would close the counter-attack after a side of the forward area. Bredos made no mistake.
